Shape Mapper is a standalone application designed to help you create simple polygons for GDI+. It automatically generates the shape code, enables you to copy it to the clipboard, and lets you adjust the grid dimension. In this video tutorial you will learn about Vector and Bitmap graphics. We will see some methods to draw a circle, lines, rectangles, squares, ellipses, stars, text, polygons, textured polygons, fonts, lines and ellipses on a canvas using GDI+ Features of our application: 1. User can change the colors of the gradient brush, line brush, fill brush, and fill brush. 2. User can change the colors of the grid and the pattern. 3. User can change the colors of the fill brush, line brush, gradient brush and fill brush. 4. User can change the canvas size. 5. User can rotate the canvas and move it. 6. User can delete the canvas. 7. User can save the image in bmp, jpg, png format Note: 1. User has to select the DPI (dots per inch) value to see the image on monitor. 2. User can select the grid size by moving the slider of the Grid line. 3. User can select the pattern using the pattern lable. 4. User can select the gradient using the gradient lable. 5. User can select the fill brush using the brush lable. 6. User can select the line brush using the brush lable. OpenGL hello world example by coding in gdiplus Hello world using GDI+ Drawing from zero to a new image Create an image in memory and fill it with a color Draw a rectangle Draw a star Dot filling Dot stroking Real time display of live wav file using GDI+ on .Net platform. Using the code below you can play the wav file that is continuously saved in the server (sound card). Sample Wav File The code below is simple .Net console application. The complete code is available here: Here we take advantage of the source code in:
